25 CAMPSITES FOR VANS & RVs ON MALLORCA

If you have purchased this e-book, you already know that camping on Mallorca is anything but easy. There are hardly any official parking spaces. No services at all. Wild camping is forbidden and overnight stays in RVs and vans are barely tolerated, but not officially allowed.

Interestingly, there exists a motorhome association in Mallorca. Which tells you a lot about the relationship between what is officially allowed and what should be. The parking and camping options contained in this e-book are no official campsites. Rather, they are possibilities that we have found on our travels over the years.

And that leads me to a very important request: the spots you will find here are no secrets, but they are not mainstream either. And it would be great if it stays that way. We are very happy to share our knowledge. However, the more crowded certain great stops become, the more likely it becomes that they may be closed to motorhomes and vans sooner or later.

Therefore, use the knowledge you will gain here wisely. Share photos of the nature and the great beaches, recommend our page, if you feel like, but don't necessarily broadcast the exact locations of these campsites to the four winds. In your own interest and also in the interest of those who want to spend a great camping holiday on Mallorca after you.

Please also bear in mind that when camping on Mallorca, you are in a legal limbo. We have never had any issues with the police at any point. However, legal issues cannot be completely avoided. It very much depends on the different municipalities how campers are treated. And even more so, how tense the parking situation is in general at a certain location.

Therefore, an important advice is not to show off too much as a camper and not to take up too much space in public. Especially where the situation with cars and parking is already tight. As long as you use common sense, show respect to others and leave no trash behind, you should be safe.

PROFILE

Views over the Sea

A wide area at the end of a road with a vast view of the open sea. There are only a few houses whose entrance should be respected.

Due to the tight parking situation, the place is only accessible to residents from May to October. After the season, it is open to everyone.
